Is Life Worth Living?

That depends upon the Liver. If the Liver is inactive the whole system is out of order—the breath is bad, digestion poor, head dull or aching, energy and hopefulness gone, the spirit is depressed, a heavy weight exists after eating, with general despondency and the blues. The Liver is the housekeeper of the health; and a harmless, simple remedy that acts like Nature, does not constipate afterwards or require constant taking, does not interfere with business or pleasure during its use, makes Simmons Liver Regulator a medical perfection.

I have tested its virtues personally, and know that for Dyspepsia, Biliousness and "Throbbing" Headache, it is the best medicine the apothecary has. Have tried forty other remedies before Simmons Liver Regulator, and none of them gave more than temporary relief, but the Regulator not only relieved but cured.

ACTING SAVES LIVES.

COUNSEL FOR MURDERERS EMPLOY THEATRICAL METHODS.

How Lawyers Who Defend Criminals Strive to Make an Impression on the Sympathies of Jurymen—Some Notable Cases Where Lawyers Succeeded.

For years it has been generally known among lawyers that all sorts of desperate and theatrical devices are constantly resorted to in order to save the lives of accused persons. But Mr. Wellman was the first prosecutor to make the charge in open court and quote an instance to his allegation.

Is the practice right or wrong?
Perhaps the most moving part of Lawyer William F. Howe's elegant summing up on behalf of Annie Walden was where he brought the jury to consider her youth, her beauty and her helplessness.

When Francis L. Wellman, assistant district attorney, began his summing up for the prosecution, he urged the jurors not to be moved by his adversary's emotional appeals. He called Mr. Howe an actor.

"If you had seen him, as I have, go behind a woman defendant and pinch her to make her scream and so arouse sympathy, you would not be so much influenced by his theatrical display."

"Whom did Mr. Howe pinch?" I asked Mr. Wellman.

"Ella Nelson," was his prompt reply.
"You recall that she had shot her lover dead because he was packing his trunk and preparing to leave her. She was on trial for her life. Mr. Howe got her acquitted."

"When he had got to that part of his summing up where he called upon the jury to 'look at her,' Ella was sitting behind a table, her face toward the jury, but resting in her hands. She had been weeping for some minutes, but now she was composed."

"Look at that face!" pleaded Mr.
Howe in impassioned tones. He strode rapidly behind her. Again he cried, "Look at that face!" and as he did so he seized Ella's soft wrists in his strong hand and wrenched her arms apart. The woman screamed with pain and terror.

"That scream was enough to freeze the blood of anybody who heard it. I cannot help thinking that it had much to do with the verdict."

"I do not say that it is wrong for counsel to employ theatrical methods in defending their clients. I think it is part of the duty of the prosecuting officer to expose this sort of thing to the jury."

"Frederick B. House was defending a man named Becker in the general sessions. Becker had a clothing store in Baxter street. He arranged a candle so that when it burned down to a certain point at midnight it would set fire to it and so burn the store and earn Becker a big amount of insurance. Firemen quenched the flames and saved the lives of seventy-six men, women and children who were sleeping in the tenement above the store."

"When Mr. House summed up he was in a quagmire. Becker couldn't understand one word in English, therefore how could the poor devil weep at the proper moment? That little difficulty was solved all right. Firemen rested his face in his hands and peeped through his interlaced fingers at his eloquent defender."

"Think, gentlemen," said Mr. House
"if you send this wretched man to prison you will punish those innocent little ones." At that instant Mr. House dropped his handkerchief.

"Wow!" came a shriek from Becker.
It began like the scream of a catamount, died away in a long drawn wail and choking sob. Becker's tears were like a shower. Mrs. Becker's and the little Beckers' tears were a cloudburst. Human nature couldn't stand it. Juror No. 3 was a nice old fellow, retired from business and living at home surrounded by sons and daughters and chubby grandchildren. He broke down at the second drop of Fred House's handkerchief. At the third drop of the cambric the juror's tears gushed out beyond the railing.
Answering sobs and gasps came from two other jurors.

"It seems hard to believe, but it is a matter of record that in the face of the clear evidence against Becker the jury stood three for acquittal and nine for conviction. The tears and howls and the little Beckers saved the guilty man.
And in proof of his guilt let me add that Becker was released under $3,500 bail, but he ran away, although the case was soon brought up for retrial."

"Often the question of makeup tests the counsel stage manager's ability and ingenuity. There was Alphonse Stephani, the young man who deliberately murdered Lawyer Clinton G. Reynolds for not surrendering Stephani's father's estate fast enough to be squandered. The defense was insanity."

"Perhaps you recall the Stephani who came to trial. Instead of the handsome, neatly dressed rich man's son, the jury saw a wild, unkempt creature, a Caliban in ugliness. Stephani's hair had been untouched by shears or brush for months.
He had not bathed or shaved. He still wore the clothes he had on when arrested. His linen was in tatters and almost black. His outer garments were greasy and crusted with accumulations of spilled food. Stephani was a good actor. Not a word did he speak to any one. With large black eyes, as deep and mournful as Edwin Booth's, he stared gloomily at nothing. Lear was a model of sanity beside him. There was more or less testimony to show that Stephani had fallen off a pony, and many years ago and hurt his head, and that he had always been high tempered, like any spoiled child. No one had bothered about his alleged insanity, though, until after he had killed his father's old friend."

"Insane," was the jury's judgment after listening to the testimony and watching the gloomy makeup of the prisoner. They found him guilty of murder in the second degree, and he was sent to prison for life. Today he is a neat, well behaved and short haired convict. —New York Herald.

Aged at Nineteen Years.

An important bit of local history has been discovered at Salem in connection with a tombstone in the old Charter street burying ground. In the utter-most corner of this ground is a stone bearing this inscription:

"Mr. Nathan Mather died October ye 17th, 1838. An aged person that had seen but nineteen winters in this world."

The meaning of this peculiar inscription has long been a matter for conjecture among local historians. In his "American Notebooks," Nathaniel Hawthorne refers to it and says: "An aged man at nineteen years, with the gravestone. It affected me deeply when I cleared away the grass from the half buried stone and read the name."

The mystery has been solved by the discovery in the Essex institute of a book entitled, "The Genealogy of the Mather Family." By this book it appears that Nathaniel Mather was born July 6, 1819, and was a brother of Cotton Mather and a son of Increase Mather.

At the age of twelve years he had thoroughly fitted for college, and he was graduated from Harvard at the age of eighteen. At twelve he had read the Old Testament in Hebrew and the new Testament in Greek, and was able to converse familiarly in Latin. He was distinguished not only for his complete mastery of languages, but for his attainments in mathematics, philosophy, history, theology and rabbinical learning as well. At the time of his graduation he delivered an oration in Hebrew upon the state of learning among the Jews.—

Where Columbus Got His Idea.

Medieval Europe knew but very little of eastern and northeastern Asia. Many of the most learned cosmographers of the time taught that Asia stretched eastward indefinitely, and no one imagined that it had an eastern coast washed by the ocean. It was seriously taught that eastern Asia was a land of vast swamps, inhabited by monster serpents and dragons. This was the opinion that still prevailed up to within 200 years of the time of Columbus.

At this time two Venetian merchants by the name of Polo went on a vast trading expedition to the uttermost parts of Asia. They were gone many years. Upon their return the son of one of them, a young man named Marco Polo, wrote out a full account of their travels, described the empire of the grand khan (the Chinese emperor) and revealed the fact that Asia was bounded on the east by a vast ocean. He described this eastern coast minutely, with all its vast cities and its wealth of precious stones and spices.

It was from reading this book that the imagination of Columbus was fired, and he conceived the bold conception of reaching this eastern coast of Asia by sailing toward the west around the earth.

So when he discovered Cuba he had not a doubt that he had landed upon the coast of Asia, and that he looked upon the same scenes that Marco Polo had gazed upon 300 years before.—Yankee

The Floating Weeds in the Atlantic.
The gulf weed (Fucus natans) which,
with its little round "berries," is not unlike the mistletoe in form, but of a brownish yellow color, has been thought to have lost its property of rooting on rocks and to have acquired the power of living afloat. It has even been suggested that the sea marks the site of a submerged continent, apparently the lost Atlantis. Dr. Krummoltz holds that the weed has simply been drifted to its present position by the Gulf stream and is affluents from the West Indian islands and the Gulf of Mexico.

It is now proved that the Gulf stream is not a single narrow "river of the ocean," as Maury poetically described it, but consists of a number of currents, not only from the Mexican gulf, but the Antilles. The weed, according to Dr.
Krummoltz, would take fifteen days to float as far north as the latitude of Cape Hatteras and five and a half months to reach the Azores. In the Sargasso sea it becomes heavy and sinks; but the supply is kept up by the Gulf stream.—London Globe.

Advice for Young Journalists.

A correspondent asks, "How shall a young man proceed who desires to become a reporter?"

Let him apply to the city editor of the paper on which he hopes to get a job. If he can bring a short letter of introduction it will not hurt him; but he doesn't need any great wad of recommendations.
He should know what he can do in the way of reading and writing English, be prepared to say how old he is, if he speaks German or French, or any other foreign language; if he is in good health, if he drinks; he doesn't want to be fresh, nor does he want to be a chump. He wants to get rid of the idea that the paper needs him, but wants to impress it on the city editor (not by talking, however) that he is a good man, and that if he has had no experience he will nevertheless learn. Some papers prefer green men; they don't have to unlearn so much. —New York Sun.

REVOLUTION IN ALABAMA.

The returns from the Alabama election, held last Monday, show a revolution in the political opinion of that State. The People's party polled about seventy per cent. of the Democratic vote in several counties and elected over half of the members of the Legislature. The only place in the State where the straight Democrats have a majority is in the "Black Belt," which comprises about six counties. Thomas E. Jones, the present Governor, who was a candidate for re-election on the regular Democratic ticket, has only a few thousand majority, though in 1890 it exceeded 97,000.

WEAVER ON THE COMSTOCK.

An ovation was given General Weaver on the Comstock yesterday. The meeting last night was the largest and most enthusiastic since bonanza days when silver was at par and the population three times what it is to-day. There were delegations from Lyon, Ormsby and Washoe counties of determined men, who were not swayed from the course they believe it to be their duty to pursue in this campaign.

Storey county is certain to roll up a large majority for the Silver party in November, as several of the mining superintendents, nearly all the business men and all the miners who are not intimidated are for Weaver, free coinage and prosperity.

Colonel F. C. Lord of Virginia City, who has been Secretary of the Republican State Central Committee for years, aspires to the Superintendency of the Carson Mint, a position for which he is eminently qualified, and the Harrison organs protest because Colonel Lord is an earnest advocate of free coinage. To this complication has it come at last under Wall street regulations that it is urged as a disqualification for Federal office in Nevada that the applicant favors the re-monetization of silver.

Elections occur in the following named States before the general election in November. Arkansas elects a Governor and State officers September 5th. Florida elects a Governor and other State officers and a Legislature October 4th. Georgia elects State officers October 5th. Maine elects a Governor, Legislature and Congressmen September 18th, and Vermont elects a Governor and other State officers, Members of Congress and a Legislature September 6th.

The People's party and Republicans have combined against Congressman Beckenkridge of Arkansas and will beat him. Mr. Beckenkridge voted for Cleveland and against the Stewart free coinage bill. The Republicans of Arkansas are more consistent free coinage men than those of Nevada.

Mrs. Mary Lease, the Kansas cyclone orator, says ex-Senator Ingalls defeated himself by contradicting himself. "We noted what Mr. Ingalls said on Friday," said the lady, "and compared it with what Mr. Ingalls said on Saturday; that is, we put Mr. Ingalls against Mr. Ingalls and he annihilated himself."

Captain Bowers, who served in the Union army and is one of the orators of the People's party, is now accompanying General Weaver West. He says if Weaver is elected he will convene Congress in extra session, and if possible have a free coinage Act on the statutes in thirty days after his inauguration.

Only eight Republicans voted for Stewart's free coinage bill in the House of Representatives, yet men pretending to be in favor of silver here in Nevada support the party. Ninety-four Democrats voted against the Stewart bill in the House, yet a few Nevadans think of staying with that party.

There is but one free coinage candidate in the field for President, and he is the nominee of the People's party.

BY TELEGRAPH.

Weaver in Virginia.

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL.
VIRGINIA CITY, August 4.—General Weaver's stay in this city has been a continual ovation. During the early part of the evening bonfires were blazing, brass bands played and crowds lined the streets. The speaking at the Opera House began at 8 o'clock. Twenty-five hundred people crowded into every seat and occupied every available spot in Piper's Opera House. General Powning introduced the People's party candidate. General Weaver spoke for an hour and a half, and worked the meeting up to the highest pitch of enthusiasm. His address impressed everyone as a masterful argument, presenting the silver question and other issues in a new light. He showed that at the close of the war there was in circulation among the twenty-five million people of the North, two hundred dollars in currency. To-day there are sixty-four million people, and according to the figures of the late Senator Plumb, there are only six hundred millions of dollars in currency. This is the source of the present hard times, the parent of strikes and the cause of the universality of debt and mortgages. The speaker severely criticized the action of the Secretary of the Treasury in obeying the dictates of Wall Street, and stated that he had a promise to make, that when elected he would discharge that Secretary and inaugurate a system whereby the people—not any class—should dictate to its interests the money functions of the Government.

General Weaver was followed by Mrs. Leese who spoke an hour. Her address marked her as a wonderful orator. Many pronounced her speech the most remarkable effort they had ever heard.

"Now see if you can hit me with a silver dollar," said Mrs. Leese as she closed, and forthwith more than a hundred silver dollars rattled upon the stage.

At the close loud calls for Stewart were made but he was not present.

Dedication of the Waterson Club House.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., August 4.—Hon. Adlai S. Stevenson delivered an address at the dedication of the Waterson club house to-night and in the course of his remarks said when the momentous issues that divided people and sections passed from the domain of debate and ballot to the dread arbitrament of arms, I believed with Stephen A. Douglas that the most direct road to peace lay through the most independent preparations for war.

From the beginning to the close of that great conflict, I was for the maintenance, at whatever cost, of the Federal Union. With the restoration of Federal authority with some of the States, the period of reconstruction was but another name for misrule, for political astraction of the white race, for the robbery of the people already impoverished by war and for the outrage upon the rights of property and people. "It would serve no wise purpose to revive the memories of this era, but for the reason that we are now confronted by the startling fact that the party in power stands pledged to the re-enactment of the Force bill. History would but repeat itself. The evils that would follow the legislation now threatened would find their counterpart only in those which wake up as shameful a part of the reconstruction period. The South stands upon the threshold of material development. Can it be possible that the American people will now consent that the hands be turned back upon the dial, and an era of misrule, outrage and violence again be inaugurated?"

The Yellowstone Park Investigation.

WASHINGTON, August 4.—The Minority House Committee on Public Lands to-day submitted its views on the Yellowstone Park investigation. They take the grounds that Secretary Noble acted with fairness and justice in annulling the transportation leases, and that Gibson acted in a false and deceitful manner in his relations with the Secretary. The most bitter attack is made on Gibson by the minority, while Russell Harrison's connection with the company is defended in strong terms. Referring to it, the minority accuses the majority of going out of its way in what it characterizes as an attempt to smirch the son of the President by the use of "some incidentals in the evidence. The facts are, it says, a certain party interested in the park association, assuming Harrison would have some influence with the unknown Secretary of the Interior to be appointed, proposed to induce Harrison to use such supposed influence for the benefit of the association, and remunerate him with fifty shares of stock, but the stock was never issued. The minority holds that Harrison was never requested, except by Waters, to so use his influence, and there was no need that he should do so. The whole thing was evidently a fraud and one of Gibson's tricks, and the majority's comment against Harrison was wholly unequalled for.

Must Respect the People.

LONDON, August 4.—Lord Chief Justice Coleridge delivered judgment to-day in the case in which a workman sued the Duke of Rutland because the latter's game keeper stopped traffic on the highway while they were driving grouse. Lord Coleridge said the days of high handed interference with the rights of the people had passed. The evidence showed the game keeper had knocked the plaintiff down, and when he complained to the Duke's son, Lord Edward Manners, the latter replied: "Go to the devil. If you're shot your life will be on your own head." Thus, the Lord Chief Justice said, would not be tolerated from any person.

There is only one issue in Nevada this year, and that is free coinage. It is a fight between the interests of Nevada and Wall street.

Men who are advocating the election of Harrison or Cleveland cannot expect the votes of free coinage men in Nevada this year.

The People's party State Convention of Nebraska nominated ex-United States Senator Van Wyck for Governor.

Strikers Getting Desperate.

HOMESTEAD, August 4.—The moral suasion of clubs and stones was adopted by a few desperate strikers at Duquesne to-day. The foreman of the mechanical department was ordered to report with thirty men this morning. A number of strikers determined to stop them and twenty men went from Homestead to assist. Three hundred men gathered about the gate and as fast as the employees arrived, they were peremptorily ordered home. The foreman made some resistance and was stoned and beaten. The Deputy Sheriff was hummed in by the crowd and were unable to help him. Hugh Boyce, the boss carpenter and another man managed to run the gauntlet and get in safely. Then the strikers proposed to storm the works. A telegram was hastily dispatched to Brigadier General Wiley, and the Sixteenth Regiment was sent on a special train. As soon as the soldiers marched up the street the strikers fell back and further violence ended. None of the repair men would go to work this afternoon, however, being too badly frightened.

The Wardner Prisoners.

WARDNER, Idaho, August 4.—The disposition of the two hundred and four prisoners confined at Wardner and Wallace is as far from settled as ever. If the prisoners are turned over to the United States Marshal and a special term of the United States Court is held at Coeur d'Alene City General Carlin will have to furnish guards to convey the prisoners to that point, which will require the retention of all the troops here for at least six weeks longer. When the prisoners are finally disposed of, three companies are to remain in permanent camp at a point to be designated by Governor Wiley. It is said the feeling of the union miners is very bitter against the man Allison, who joined the Miners' Union at Gem as a spy. He was elected Secretary of the Union, and it is stated his testimony will be sensational when he takes the witness stand at Boise.

Alfalfa at Wallace.

WALLACE, Idaho, August 4.—Peter Green, a member of the Boite Miners' Union, was brought to Wallace last night and is now confined in jail. Green was here during the trouble, and it is alleged he incited the miners to resort to arms. All the prisoners are suffering from the heat. M. H. Frazer, Justice of the Peace of Mullan, was released on $5,000 bonds. No further examinations will be held till August 8th. A detachment of troops left Wallace to-day for Mullan to assist the Deputy United States Marshal in making arrests.

Democratic Campaign Work.

NEW YORK, August 4.—The Democratic National Campaign Committee to-day selected Don M. Dickinson of Michigan as Chairman of the Campaign Committee, and B. E. Smalley of Vermont, Secretary. Chairman Harbry of the National Committee was authorized to appoint the necessary sub-committees, and Messrs. Harbry and William C. Whitney were added to the Campaign Committee. The Advisory Committee will not be appointed for several days.

Foully Murdered.

FALL RIVER, Mass., August 4.—Andrew Borden and wife were found dead at their home at 92 Second street this morning. Both had been frightfully mutilated about the head and face with some sharp instrument. Borden was a wealthy real estate owner and mill man, and was seen on the street half an hour before the couple were found. There is no clue to the murderer as yet.

A New Record.

MONMOUTH PARK, August 4.—In the Trenton stakes Kirsch made the distance in 1:38, which makes a new record for a mile over a straight course. Salvator made it in 1:35 1/2 in his celebrated race against time, but Kirsch's race may be chronicled as the existing mile record.

$1,000 Reward.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 4.—The S. P. Co. and W. F. & Co. have offered a reward of $1,000 for information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of each of the men who robbed the Los Angeles express near Fresno last night.

The Difference.

Uncompromising Republican: "Of the two men, I would rather see Benjamin Harrison elected; he is my party's nominee."

Dyed-in-the-wool Democrat: "Of the two men, I would rather see Grover Cleveland elected; he is my party's choice."

Country-before-Party Republicans and Democrats: "Of the four Presidential nominees we would rather see James B. Weaver elected. He would work for the re-monetization of silver."—Belmont Courier.

There was trouble at the Carnegie works at Duquesne, Pa., yesterday. About three hundred men from Homestead attacked a party of non-union men and a few were injured. Troops were sent to the scene, and all was quiet last evening.

In the North American Review for August ex-Speaker Reed says the Republicans saved the country from free coinage, yet some Republicans in Nevada assume that the election of Harrison will give us free coinage.

There is only one issue in Nevada this year, and that is free coinage. It is a fight between the interests of Nevada and Wall street.

Men who are advocating the election of Harrison or Cleveland cannot expect the votes of free coinage men in Nevada this year.

The People's party State Convention of Nebraska nominated ex-United States Senator Van Wyck for Governor.

If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar medicine, possessing, by virtue of its peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation, curative power superior to any other article. A Boston lady who knew what she wanted, and whose example is worthy imitation, tells her experience below:

To Get

"In one store where I went to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla the clerk tried to induce me to buy any other. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar medicine, possessing, by virtue of its peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation, curative power superior to any other article. A Boston lady who knew what she wanted, and whose example is worthy imitation, tells her experience below:

Hood's

When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was feeling real miserable, suffering a great deal with dyspepsia, and so weak that at times I could hardly stand. I looked around for some time, like a person in consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me so much good that I wonder at myself sometimes, and my friends frequently speak of it." Mrs. ELIZABETH A. THE PERFECT FRIEND.
One only friend we have Accounted sure:
One only love is ours
That will endure.
All other friends are dear:
Who know how dear
Who gave them for our joy
And solace here.
All other loves are sweet:
Who know how sweet
Of whom sad souls that lack
For love entreat.
But friends however true
This life will test.
And they will fail us out
Who know us best.
And loves however strong
In time may change:
Misfortunes may divide,
New ties estrange.
Sorest of all will come Sorrow and grief:
Misery will chide, and doubt Divide friendship hence.
Oh, slow of heart to learn
What we owe—
One only perfect friend Hath any known!
—H. M. Kimball in New York Independent.

The Transition of Electrical Theories.
To the question, "What is electricity?", which is often asked, no absolute and satisfactory answer has yet been found. Notwithstanding the wonderful development of electrical applications, electricians are still feeling their way as to the nature and many of the principles of the operation of the mighty forces that they are learning to control. This was suggestively shown by a remark made by the vice president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers at the annual convention of that body. The speaker claimed that the present theories of electricity should be regarded merely as stepping stones to more comprehensive and satisfactory ones. He contended that modern theories of electrical phenomena, if adopted as an absolute framework of all our knowledge of these subjects, may, in a few years, become prison bars that will prevent the mind from making a free and unprejudiced investigation of new theories and new phenomena, and giving due weight and significance in the general science of electricity to the results obtained by the most recent experimenters. —St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Future of the Mississippi Valley.
The delta of the Mississippi, below its junction with the Ohio, richer than the Nile or the Rhine, exceeds the combined area of Holland and Egypt, and is destined under the stimulus of free labor and the incentives of self government to build a fabric of society more opulent and enduring. Add to this the inexhaustible alluvion of the streams above, and the fertile prairies from which they descend, and the arithmetic of the past has no logarithms with which to compute the problems of the economic and commercial future of the west. It will be predominant in the development, not of this country alone, but of the hemisphere, and will give direction to the destinies of the human race. We stand in the vestibule. We have not yet entered the temple.—John J. Ingalls in Lippincott's.

He Was the Duke.
When, in 1833, Professor Freeman was examining Battle Abbey, he found himself dogged by a person who, as he thought, somewhat officiously obstructed his efforts of assistance. After vainly trying to shake him off, he broke forth with: "I don't want your assistance. The Duke of Cleveland promised that I should not be interfered with by the gardeners." "Exactly so," was the reply; "I hope they have obeyed my orders. I am the Duke of Cleveland." —San Francisco Examiner.

A London Bachelors' Club.
The Bachelors' club, a London institution, in 1891 numbered no fewer than twenty-three defections in the shape of members who married; but the club gained $755 in fines at the rate of $25 a wedding. The club is flourishing, and seems on the whole to encourage rather than depreciate matrimony as a fine art. There are still 839 bachelors in the list of members.—London Tit-Bits.

Deaf Mute Pupils.
It is not generally known what wonderful progress has been made in this country of late years in teaching the dumb to speak. It appears from the official records that last year articulation was taught to no less than 4,215 pupils in American schools for the deaf. In a large number of these cases the infirmity dated from birth and was inherited.

Discovered Affection.
Clara—Can it be, Dolly, that you are to marry Mr. Smith, after saying to me repeatedly that you could not endure him?
Dolly—The truth is, Clara, dear, that until I heard that his aunt had died leaving him a fortune I was deceived in my own feelings toward him.—Ex change.

In New Orleans the dog catchers who feed the pound with vagrant curs proceed about their work with a slip noose, which they hold in front of the dog's head or under his feet.

The Spanish government has taken possession of the largest shipbuilding works in that country, and is offering inducements for English shipwrights to superintend the work.

Hornee Greeley once described a very famous literary woman of the last generation as "a great woman and a greater bore. Her talk was incessant."
It is a curious fact that the late Earl of Yarborough should have married a lady named Hare, and the present one a lady named Fox.
Oh, this ringing in the ears!
Oh, this humming in the head!
Hawking, blowing, snuffling, gasping,
Watering eyes and throat a-rasping,
Health impaired and comfort fled,
Till I would that I were dead!
What folly to suffer so with catarrhal troubles, when the worst causes of chronic catarrh in the head are relieved and cured by the mild, cleansing and healing properties of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It purifies the foul breath, by removing the cause of offense, heals the inflamed passages, and perfumes a lasting cure.

"German Syrup"

The majority of well-read physicians now believe that Consumption is a germ disease. In other words, instead of being in the constitution itself it is caused by innumerable small creatures living in the lungs having no business there and eating them away as caterpillars do the leaves of trees.
The phlegm that is coughed up is those parts of the lungs which have been gnawed off and destroyed. These little bacilli, as the germs are called, are too small to be seen with the naked eye, but they are very much alike just the same, and enter the body in our food, in the air we breathe, and through the pores of the skin. Thence they get into the blood and finally arrive at the lungs where they fasten and increase with frightful rapidity. Then German Syrup comes in, loosens them, kills them, expels them, heals the places they leave, and so nourish and soothe that, in a short time consumptives become germ-proof and well. @

AN ESOTERIC CLIMAX.
WHILE SPIKETOWN COUNTED SIXTY HOKO PREPARED IT.

A Professor of the Art of Leggerdemain Enlightens a Whole Town, at Fifty Cents a Head, the Difficult and Exasperating Subject of Cooking.
Nobody had ever heard of the celebrated Hoko Effendi, but the public curiosity to see him was no less keen on that account. In the little western Illinois town on which he had alighted like a flaming meteor the visit of a professor of magic was an event. All that was known of him was that he had made his appearance about the time the stage-coach from Shacksville came in, and was supposed to have traveled in that conveyance; that he had procured the printing of several hundred small bills at the office of The Blizzard, promising to pay for them the next day.

The evening came. The price of admission to the entertainment was fifty cents for adults, children half price. The celebrated Hoko Effendi was his own doorkeeper, and the people of Spiketown turned out in large numbers. There were no deadheads except the editor of The Blizzard and the dignified citizen who wore dyed whiskers and a plug hat and announced himself at the door as the mayor.

When the audience began to show impatience by the customary stamping and whistling the world renowned master of Egyptian magic accepted the proffered services of a leading citizen as doorkeeper, and went back to the other end of the hall, disappearing behind the curtain that hid the stage from view.

In a few moments he reappeared in front of it and made a pleasing little speech, requesting close attention to the performances, as many of them were of a nature bordering on the supernatural, and promising an entertainment such as had never been seen in Spiketown before and never would again.

After performing some curious tricks with playing cards he announced that the first really difficult feat of the evening would now be shown—that of baking a cake without a pan of any kind. "The ladies in the audience," he said, "when they bake cakes are compelled to use butter, eggs, flour, sugar, flavoring extract, icing, etc., and put the dough in a hot oven. I do nothing of the kind. By the simple manipulation of flour, sirup and a hat I can produce a cake in five minutes that no lady in this house can equal. I will make a cake that a committee, to be selected from the ladies present, will pronounce the best they ever tasted. I will do this or forfeit $100. Will some kind gentleman present oblige me with the loan of a high silk hat? Will you kindly lend it to me? I will take excellent care of it and return it in a few minutes."

The mayor demurred. "Your hat will not be injured in the least, sir," the magician assured him. "I will return it to you without spot, blemish or stain. I have performed this feat thousands of times without the slightest injury to the hat."

The mayor of Spiketown, thus appealed to, relented and handed over his cherished tile.

Then the magician produced a pan of flour, which was passed through the audience and unanimously declared to be genuine. He poured it into the hat. Then a quart measure half filled with New Orleans molasses was produced and handed around in like manner, pronounced the pure, unadulterated stuff, and returned to him. He poured this into the hat likewise and stirred the mixture with a long lead pencil. The mayor involuntarily gasped and half rose in his seat, but the wizard again assured him, with a wave of the hand, "Your hat will not be injured in the least, my dear sir," and he proceeded with the performance.

"Now, ladies and gentlemen," he said, "we will witness the finale, the denouement, as it were, of this unparalleled feat of illusion. I can bake the cake just as well on a piece of ice as on a stove; but as there happens to be a good fire in this stove near the stage I will bake it on top of that. Again, I assure you, Mr. Mayor, that your hat will not suffer the slightest injury."

Stepping briskly down, he placed the hat on the stove.
"Now, good people," he said, "keep your eyes on that hat till you can count sixty. I will retire and prepare the esoteric climax."

He mounted the stage and stepped behind the curtain.
In a moment a smoke went up from the hat on the stove, and the odor of something scorching filled the air.

The mayor of Spiketown jumped from his seat, and with one bound cleared the distance that lay between him and the stove.
He lifted his precious hat.

The bottom, or rather the top, fell out. The sizzling batter spread out over the stove. It hissed and sputtered and flew. And even as the mayor held up the hideous ruin of his once glorious hat and looked through it some of the yellowish mixture trickled on his vest and ran in sad, discouraged, bilious looking streams down his trousers.

His honor spoke a few words briefly, but emphatically—through his hat—and broke for the stage, followed by several of the leading citizens of Spiketown.

Behind the curtain were several empty barrels and boxes.
And the back window was up.
Somewhere in this wide, wide world the wizard of the Orient is still wandering about, happily unaware doubtless that a standing reward of fifty dollars and no questions asked is offered by the mayor of Spiketown, Ill., for information that will lead to the arrest and conviction for the crimes of grand larceny, malicious injury and obtaining money under false pretenses, of one Hoko Effendi, master of Egyptian magic and so called eighth wonder of the world.—Chicago Tribune.
